

The Province of Ontario

Joins with the Turkish Society of Canada in celebrating

International Children's Day

The International Children's Day originated in Turkey, and was subsequently celebrated in Switzerland and in China as a means of drawing attention to child welfare, and to improving programs, services and attitudes toward children in societies everywhere in the world. When we speak of the global family, we recognize that children are both our heritage and our future. Ontario joins with the Turkish Society of Canada in celebrating the joy of youth and in ensuring that the promise of each child can be fulfilled in the 21st century.

"I have found the best way to give advice to your children is to find out what they want and then advise them to do it."

U.S. President Harry S. Truman (1884-1972)
